

Environmental Consultancy

environmental compliance

www.envirocompli.com

Environmental Compliance has a highly experienced and motivated team of consultants who have a proven track record in providing consultancy services across a wide range of industrial and waste management sectors. Our aim is simple: to provide first class consultancy services to our Clients.

EPR and PPC Permit Applications

(EPR in England and Wales, PPC in Scotland)

Environmental Compliance can provide a comprehensive service to manage the complete Permit application process. This includes the initial pre-application liaison with the regulating body, preparation and submission of the application documentation and handling of post-submission queries.

The services that Environmental Compliance can offer are not just restricted to the application stage; we can provide support throughout the life of the Permit. We can also act as a company's Environmental Manager and provide regular on-site support.

BAT Assessments

BAT assessments are used by operators to demonstrate that operation of their facilities causes no significant pollution and that the techniques used represent the best available in the prevention and minimisation of pollution. BAT assessments are required at the Permit application phase and also throughout the life of the Permit.

Environmental Compliance can undertake detailed reviews of technology options and operating procedures to assist our Clients in identifying exactly what represents site-specific BAT for their operation.

Environmental Management Systems

The implementation of an Environmental Management System (EMS) allows a business to demonstrate in a transparent and auditable manner that it effectively manages all environmental aspects of its activities, products and services in a manner that affords a high degree of environmental protection.

Environmental Compliance has extensive experience in developing and implementing an EMS, specifically tailored to a company's particular needs. Support can consist of any part, or all, of the EMS cycle.

Due Diligence Audits

Due diligence audits, also referred to as Phase 1 audits, are undertaken to determine the historical and existing uses of a site and any actual or potential contamination issues related to either past or present uses of the land.

These audits are commissioned during property acquisitions or sales, by either the buyer or the seller, to identify any environmental concerns and any specific remediation measures that may be required, together with any associated costs.

Environmental Compliance has an experienced team of auditors who can advise our Clients on any potential environmental liabilities associated with proposed acquisitions or divestments.

For further information telephone 01443 841760

or email our team on info@envirocompli.com

We also provide a full range of environmental services

Visit our website at www.envirocompli.com

