CoSHH

Thousands of workers are made ill by hazardous substances every year. These substances cause a variety of conditions such as asthma, cancer and skin diseases. The cost of replacing affected workers can be crippling to a company. The Control of Substances Hazardous to Health Regulations 2002 (CoSHH), places responsibility on employers to take effective measures to control exposure and protect health.

Environmental Compliance specialise in systems, testing and documentation for controlling the risks of hazardous substances present on site. Our highly qualified staff have experience with hazardous and lower risk installations alike, and can offer:

- initial assessment and data collation on the properties of the hazardous substance
- assessment of the risk posed in accordance with the Control of Substances Hazardous to Health Regulations 2002
- verification of your controls through Occupational Hygiene assessments and testing of Local Exhaust Ventilation (LEV)
- review and further advice on the engineering and management controls necessary to reduce the risk as far as reasonably practicable.

Health and Safety Management

With approximately 30 million days lost to injury and ill health across England, Scotland and Wales each year, achieving high standards in health and safety makes excellent business sense; at the same time as ensuring legal compliance and reducing your likely exposure to civil claims.
